

FLIES OVER WHITE HOUSE AND CIRCLES CAPITOL

Swiss Aviator, in Monoplane, Loops the Loop and Provides Other Thrills.

Weather Conditions Today Prevent Repetition of the Exhibition. Flights Will Be Made Later.

High winds in the upper altitudes prevented the Swiss aviator, Domenjoz, from giving Washington spectators promised thrills in the way of a series of loop the loops. He did, however, in the face of a strong northwest breeze, loop three times while over the White House, and then he flew off and circled the dome of the Capitol.

Several thousand people gathered around the ellipse yesterday afternoon and waited for half an hour or more in the chilly air to get a glimpse of the monoplane.

Shortly after 3 o'clock those who had their eyes trained toward the river front caught the sight of the plane circling up in the air, and when the aviator reached an altitude of about 500 feet he started for a loop. He circled in the air above the ellipse for some minutes, pointed the nose of the machine straight toward the earth, and then the people scampered, for it looked as though he were coming straight down. He turned the plane on edge and did almost everything which served to demonstrate the stability of the machine.

Wind Reduces Speed.

When the machine flew into the wind persons on the ground could see that the speed was cut down materially. Domenjoz, when he landed at the ellipse, because of the severe cold, said there was a very heavy wind blowing high up. He said that after he had looped over the White House and started for the Monument the wind caught him and rushed him almost into the shaft.

After going what seemed to spectators perilously close to the Monument, Domenjoz descended to the ellipse, just back of the White House. He had hardly touched the ground before the crowds which had remained on the walk around the ellipse partook of the mob spirit and rushed to the center where the plane had landed. Efforts of the park police to keep them away from the plane failed. They pushed and rushed, and it looked for a time as if the plane would be crushed. The police, after a few minutes, gave up in despair, and left the aviator and his agents to their own resources in order to get the crowd back so that the plane could ascend and return to its hangar in Potomac Park.

Pleas With the Crowd.

James J. Quigley, one of the aviator's agents, mounted the plane and pleaded with the crowd to give the flier a chance.

"All we want," he said, "is fifty sensible men in the crowd to use their efforts to get the crowd back. Give this man a chance. He has shown you his work. Don't you think he deserves a chance for his life, for if you crowd and break something it may result disastrously."

The crowd edged back a little and made a lane through which the machine could get a start from the earth. After he ascended Domenjoz flew over the ellipse several times, turned the machine on edge so that the people could see him wave a good-bye and then returned to the hangar.

Will Not Ascend Today.

Domenjoz will not fly today on account of the snow. While he could fly, said James J. Quigley, one of his representatives, the snow is blinding, and, besides, those promoting the tag-day campaign of the diet kitchen association believe it would be dangerous for the young women to go out with tags today.

The flights will be given on the first two fair days. The machine has been taken apart, and is in the shipping boxes in Potomac Park.

PROSECUTION OUTLINED IN PRICE MURDER TRIAL

Part Played by C. D. Etchison of Washington Told by Attorney in Opening Statement.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., January 7.—A judge has been heard by Prosecutors George A. Armstrong has outlined in the district court the state's case against Frederick T. Price, charged with murdering his wife by throwing her off a cliff near this city November 28, 1914. The prosecutor in his opening statement declared Price murdered his wife in order to secure her wealth.

Price maintains his wife's fall from the cliff was accidental. Several physicians who examined the injuries about Mrs. Price's head a few minutes after she was lifted from the foot of the cliff testified that the skull had been caved in.

"Crushed Wife's Skull."

"We will show," said the prosecutor, "that Price, after throwing his wife from the cliff, became frightened lest passing automobilists hear her moans, and, accompanied by Charles D. Etchison of Washington, D. C., went to her side, not to aid her, but to crush her head with a rock."

Etchison, who is said to have confessed, saying he accompanied Price on the night of the alleged crime for $4,700 because of his indebtedness to Price and his need of money, probably will not testify before Monday.

Solomon Sutler, the negro who was arrested in Cumberland, Md., and who is said to have confessed to the murder of William F. Brown, a farmer, of Silver Run, near Westminster, Md., Saturday, has been taken to Baltimore and lodged in jail.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take anti-kamnia tablets, the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all drug stores in any quantity, the worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK HEADACHES

Sick-headache, the most miserable of all ailments, leaves its victims when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on take two tablets, and in most cases the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow can be obtained in no other way. Write A-K Tablets, hear the A-K monogram. At all drug stores.—Advertisement.

CARNEGIE IS TO SPEND THE WINTER IN FLORIDA

Will Sojourn in South on Advice of Physician—Health Shows Improvement.

NEW YORK, January 7.—Andrew Carnegie is on his way today to Miami, Fla., to spend the winter in the south in a houseboat on the inland waterways of the Florida coast. Mr. Carnegie, who left here yesterday, has rented Col. Robert M. Thompson's houseboat, the Everglades.

The condition of Mr. Carnegie's health at times during the last year has caused his friends some anxiety and his sojourn in the south is taken upon the advice of his physicians. His health is said to have shown considerable improvement recently. About a year ago Mr. Carnegie suffered a severe attack of grip. After spending the summer at Bar Harbor, Me., he returned to New York in October, telling his friends that "he felt splendid," but it was noticed that he kept in strict retirement.

On his eightieth birthday, last Thanksgiving, it was announced that he had given away most of his fortune and was no longer enormously wealthy. His business affairs and charities are now said to be very largely in the hands of others whom he selected.

FORD PARTY LEAVES FOR HOLLAND CAPITAL

Members Are Locked in Cars and Must Remain in Seats Assigned to Them.

COPENHAGEN, January 7, via London, 11:50 a.m.—The Ford party left Copenhagen today for The Hague. On board the special train, for the passage of which through part of the war zone permission has been granted by Germany, were 150 peace advocates. They will be in Germany for eleven hours, from the time they cross the frontier at Warnemunde this afternoon until Holland is reached. Each person in the party is pledged to abide by military rule.

Holland is the last country in Europe which the party will visit. It is expected that delegates from a large number of neutral countries will gather at The Hague for a protracted peace conference. While on the train each member of the party will be known only by number.

Must Remain in Seats.

Each man or woman of the party throughout the trip in Germany must occupy the seat in the train bearing the number given him or her. Each number will correspond with one placed on each passport by the German consul at Copenhagen and one in the hands of the authorities of the railroad.

If any seat in the train is unoccupied or the numbered person is missing from it, the manager of the tour has been told that this fact likely will lead to complications.

The German railroad officials explained that owing to the need of coaches for transporting wounded the accommodations for the Ford delegates had to be limited. They, therefore, will be without sleeping or dining cars. At the Benheim frontier, in Holland, everybody aboard the train will be subjected to a personal search. The Hague will be reached tomorrow.

Joseph Gamble Mason, seventy-four years, died at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. L. Carr, in Clarksville, W. Va., where he was visiting. He was a member of the Mason family of Virginia and a Confederate veteran.
